Trade and International Business Issues

- ICE Working with Health care, E-Commerce Companies to Fight COVID-19 Scams. The Homeland Security Investigations unit within ICE is working with multiple health care and e-commerce companies to fight fraudsters that are trying to take advantage of the COVID-19 pandemic, ICE said in a news release. The partnership aims to prevent the sale of counterfeit pharmaceuticals and medical equipment and illicit online sales and trade importation violations of products claiming to be treatment options. (New)
- FDA Withdraws Approvals for Some Chinese Mask Makers. The Food and Drug Administration took away approvals for more than 60 mask makers in China to export masks similar to N95 into the U.S., according to the Wall Street Journal. In a notice issued May 7, the FDA noted that certain filtering facepiece respirators from China may not provide adequate protection. An updated list of authorized respirator imports from China now only lists 14 manufacturers. (New)
- China on U.S. tariff threats: A pandemic is not the time for a trade war. At the daily press briefing on Wednesday, a Chinese Foreign Ministry spokeswoman responded to President Trump’s threats to again impose tariffs on China —this time claiming Beijing must be punished for its role in the coronavirus outbreak —by saying that new duties on Chinese goods would only harm the U.S. when the two countries should instead be working together. (New)
- Canada, Mexico, China, 39 Other Countries Say Trade Restrictions Should Be Temporary. Canada, Mexico, China, the United Kingdom, Japan and an assortment of other countries around the world said the World Trade Organization has an essential role to play in ensuring the continued flow of essential goods—including medical supplies—across borders. The signatory countries “pledge to not impose export restrictions and to refrain from implementing unjustified trade barriers on agricultural and food products in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.” No country in the European Union signed the statement, issued May 5, nor did the U.S. (New)

Insurance Issues

- For a 50-state review of business interruption insurance related issues see this new COVID-19 Insurance litigation and Regulatory Issues tracker. The tracker is updated weekly. (Updated weekly - 5/3/20)
- On April 30, the General Assembly of Pennsylvania proposed Senate Bill No. 1127 “[r]elating to property and business interruption insurance coverage for COVID-19 Pandemic-related Losses.” The Bill is structured differently than earlier proposals in that rather than simply asserting that policies will be construed to cover COVID-19 business income losses, it instead applies certain “rules of construction” to first-party insurance policy provisions in order to tie common coverage-triggering terms to COVID-19 related executive orders and the presence of the virus in a particular business. For example, the Bill provides that “[i]f a person positively identified as having been infected with COVID-19 has been present in...a building...that area of business activity shall be deemed to have experienced property damage.” Despite the different approach, the intent behind the bill appears to be the same as for earlier proposals—to retroactively define policy terms to provide for sweeping coverage of COVID-19 related business income losses. (New)

- The National Association of Insurance Commissioners has issued a Business Interruption COVID-19 Data Call Letter to property and casualty insurers indicating that state insurance regulators in 50 states, the District of Columbia, and the U.S. territories “have agreed to participate in a data call to collect data related to business interruption insurance and COVID-19.” Insurers are “requested to complete both parts of the COVID-19 business interruption data call” and to submit a “Premiums Data Template” by May 22, and a “Claims Data Template” by June 15, with mid-monthly update filings thereafter. (New)
- S&P Global Ratings has weighed in on state legislative efforts to retroactively alter insurance policy language to cover business income losses relating to the COVID-19 pandemic. S&P opines that any “such efforts in any state would be largely unsuccessful” and would likely come up against “a host of constitutional and legal challenges.”
- On April 30, the Council of the District of Columbia issued a Memorandum requesting to place certain measures on the agenda for the May 5th Legislative Meeting, including changes to the law that would impose “new requirements for business interruption insurance to pay for certain business closures during the pandemic.” On May 5, the D.C. Council reportedly decided not to push the proposal forward.
- The pace of new business income coverage claims flooding state and federal courts nationwide has continued at break-neck pace over the last few weeks. A group of plaintiffs led by celebrity chefs have reportedly formed a non-profit group—the Business Interruption Group—for the purpose of lobbying for business interruption coverage for COVID-19 losses, and have stated that “[i]f insurers do not start paying . . . we will bring BIG legal action in every state.” And notably, Plaintiffs firm Loeff Cabraser Heimann & Bernstein LLP has joined the fray, reportedly indicating that they intend to file many lawsuits on behalf of restaurant owners going forward. (Updated 5/7/20)
- Other Notable case filings include:
  - On May 5, Plaintiff Royal Palm Optical filed suit in federal court against its insurers, State Farm Mutual Auto Insurance Company and State Farm Florida Insurance alleging claims for both declaratory relief and breach of contract. Plaintiff alleges that its policy’s “Fungi, Virus or Bacteria” exclusion is inapplicable to its claim because its alleged business income losses were caused not by the presence of SARS-CoV-2 on the premises, but instead by the executive orders issued by authorities in Florida. Plaintiff seeks to represent both a nationwide class and a Florida state class. The case is Royal Palm Optical, Inc. v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 9:20-cv-80749-RS (S.D. Fla.).
