David Rusk is an associate in Alston & Bird's Finance Group who focuses his practice on commercial real estate finance. David represents a variety of lenders and servicers in a broad range of commercial real estate finance transactions, including commercial mortgage loan originations, repurchase and warehouse facilities, and special servicing and master servicing matters. David also represents buy-side and sell-side clients in the purchase and sale of distressed debt and equity on the secondary loan and equity trading markets.

Before joining Alston & Bird, David was a member of the finance practice group of an Am Law 100 firm representing borrowers and financial institutions in a variety of commercial lending transactions, including syndicated financings, commodities financings, acquisition financing, and other secured and unsecured transactions.

David received his J.D. from Washington University School of Law. He received a B.A. in music from Brigham Young University.
