Katie Jo Lunningham practices complex litigation and appellate matters with an emphasis on issues affecting institutions of higher education, data privacy litigation, class actions, and complex commercial disputes. Katie Jo has extensive experience drafting substantive trial motions and appellate briefs, and has defended clients in multiple state and federal jurisdictions, and in arbitration. She is recognized by The Best Lawyers of America® “Ones to Watch” for Commercial Litigation.

Katie Jo has also served as an alumni-elected regent on the Baylor University Board of Regents since 2018, giving her unique insight into the nonprofit and education industries. Her board service includes positions on the Compliance & Regulatory Affairs, Finance & Facilities, University Leadership & Compensation, and Student Life committees, giving her a deep understanding of the institutional risks, administrative challenges, and student life issues facing colleges and universities.

Before joining Alston & Bird, Katie Jo represented institutions of higher education in civil litigation, including cases involving constitutional claims, federal and state regulatory issues, and employment disputes.

Katie Jo served as a law clerk for the Hon. Elizabeth L. Branch of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit. In 2015, she was awarded a Burton Distinguished Writing Award by the U.S. Library of Congress for Excellence in Legal Writing for her academic article on higher education and administrative law.
