Mandi Wiggins is a digital forensic professional with over 22 years of combined experience in digital forensics, e-discovery, breach response, information technology, and data consulting. Her extensive experience working in consulting firms, the federal government, and legal service providers, affords clients a thorough understanding of a complex range of data collections from diverse sources. Her consultation has supported a wide array of industries including financial, technology, automotive, collegiate, federal and local governments, health care, and pharmaceutical businesses.

Before joining Alston & Bird, Mandi was the founder and principal consultant at a private firm providing digital forensic and expert services. She led teams of consultants and analysts in both digital forensics and e-discovery for consulting firms and legal service providers in New York, Washington, D.C, San Francisco, CA, and Detroit, MI.

Mandi develops effective workflows and applications of technology, offering a tailored approach to digital collection and analysis solutions. She provides guidance on data collection methodologies, and their execution. Mandi is experienced in utilizing Cellebrite UFED and Physical Analyzer, Oxygen Forensic Detective, Magnet Axiom, Exterro AccessData FTK, Elcomsoft, and a variety of other technologies and tools related to digital forensics and e-discovery.
