Sherlonda Branch is a Relativity Certified Administrator and litigation support professional with more than 20 years of experience managing and consulting on complex and technically challenging projects. As a technical project manager for Alston & Bird, Sherlonda serves as the liaison to the case team and client for collection, processing, hosting, review, and production of client data.

Sherlonda's desire for success with the matters she supports drives her to develop strategic workflows that are efficient and defensible. Adding to the success is the team approach she employs by working very closely with the entire case team to identify means to reduce costs, human effort, and rework by utilizing technology.

Sherlonda is efficient in database design management utilizing Relativity, Concordance, and IPRO with an adeptness in learning and mastering other tools as needed for data management and review.
